

7s at school and in the library

Year 7s around the school gave the Press Pack some opinions on what they like about DSTC.

A few year 7s said that DSTC is different from primary school but in a positive way. They said that they liked the lessons and how the classes are not overcrowded. They said that it felt weird when they were in primary school because they were some of the oldest people in the school, but now they are the youngest year, it seems like they are the reception again.

Thanks to the year 7 tutors on the first week, the year 7s now know their way around and know where their classes are.

The year 7s like their new teachers because most are kind.

Some year 7s like the fact that the library is better than their primary school library as it is open to use in the morning, break times, lunch times and after school for homework.

The librarian is delighted to have all the year 7s coming in and out of the library every day and she loves the fact that year 7s like coming into the library to either read books or use the computers.

By Toni Parsons

